HARVEST

APPELLATION

Luján de Cuyo

VINEYARD

Luján de Cuyo. A traditional and well-known wine-growing region in Mendoza, situated at high elevations from 3,251 to 3,467 feet (1,057 meters). Semi-desert climate.

SOIL

Low-nutrient gravelly soils provide ideal conditions for producing high quality grapes.

GROWING SEASON

The season presented several challenges relating to weather conditions: a cool spring, with lower than average temperatures and late frosts affecting yields. Mid-summer saw heat waves and rain, resulting in a natural thinning of the grape bunches. Harvest started earlier than usual in some areas. Yields: 4.0 tons per acre.

AGING & BOTTLING

Aged for 17 months in new French oak (25%) and new American oak (5%), as well as second-use oak (70%). Bottled in December 2015. Unfined and unfiltered.

TASTING NOTES

Deep and intense red with dark violet hues, the wine has a powerful aromatic expression: black and red fruits like plum and blackberry elegantly compliment the spicy notes. There is good structure in the mouth, and the round tannins lead to a long and persistent finish.
